WHAT IT COSTS TO SPRINKLE IN CITY

There seems to be quite a misunderstanding in regard to the use of garden hose. A member of the water board when seen today stated that a $2 permit gives the householder the privilege of using the hose for the season, and the $5 permit gives him the privilege of using lawn sprinklers, either of the revolving type or like ring or any of the ordinary lawn sprinklers such as are in common use, in the regular sprinkling hours as specified on the hose permit. The $15 permit gives the privilege for the stationary fountain. In either case, of course, the water board expects the householder to use ordinary care so that the water is not wasted. The use of lawn sprinklers outside of the regular hours permitted is prohibited, and a $3 hose permit does not give the holder the right to attach the hose to a sprinkler or ring.

THIGH BROKEN; DIAMOND LOST

When Car Carrying Seven Persons Goes Through Fence and Down Bank Near Shokan.

Saturday evening about 6 o'clock Stanley Oleck of the Bronx, driving a Durant tourant car to the Catskills, in which were Mrs. Oleck, his two sons, Larry and Harvey, and Jacob, David, Hyman and Marcy Oleck, his brothers, lost control of his car while on the Ashokan boulevard near Shokan and went across the highway through a highway railing and down an embankment about ten feet into a ditch. The radiator, mud guard and windshield were badly damaged. Mr. Oleck was the only one injured and was taken to the Kingston City Hospital, where he is being treated for a fracture of the thigh.

Mrs. Oleck lost a valuable diamond from a ring she wore, it becoming loosened from the setting when she struck her hand against the side of the car. Although a diligent search was made for the diamond, it could not be found. A few minutes after the accident occurred Sheriff Kelts and Deputy Sheriff Seth Jocelyn happened along in a touring car and gave assistance to the people and kept automobiles moving that came along in numbers.

N. Y. BOYS AT CAMP GREENKILL

West Side Y. M. C. A. Resort For Study And Recreation In Full Swing—Seaplane Flies Over First Binnewater.

One hundred and fifty boys from New York city are enjoying themselves at Camp Greenkill, on the First Binnewater, conducted by the West Side Y. M. C. A., New York city. The camp opened June 30 and will close September 1, and boys come and go constantly, two weeks being the average stay.

The camp is in charge of Director of Boys York Wilfred C. Ackerly, of New York, a cousin of the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley of the Fair street Reformed Church, this city, whose mother's maiden name was Sinclair, a sister-in-law of the late Hewitt Boice. He has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in New York for several years.

The camp is reached by a tortuous road from Whiteport, a one-mile trip over which in an automobile is an adventure by itself, but is finely located for its purpose. There are 160 acres adjacent to the lake, which is clear and deep and on the shores of which have been erected a 30-foot diving tower, a good boat dock and floats and there are many canoes and boats which the boys use. They can't use them, however, until they prove their ability to swim with shoes and clothing on. On an elevation nearby are a large frame mess hall, with a spacious fireplace, then a street with ten tents on each side, accommodating eight sleepers each, and an auditorium of wood construction, with a piano and facilities for games and recreation. Close by are a baseball diamond and basketball and tennis courts. The boys study flowers, birds, etc., and receive credits, according to a regular system from "Chief" Ackerly. Saturday and Sundays are visitors' days.

Commander Charles Anderson, U. S. N., a friend of Mr. Ackerly, was scheduled to fly over the camp Sunday and then go there by auto for a visit, which it is presumed he did since a small naval plane went up the Rondout Creek Sunday afternoon, returningn in about 15 minutes and alighting on the Rondout Creek off the Cornell shops.

OFFICER KUEHN INJURED SUNDAY

Motorcycle Officer Has Narrow Escape Trailing a Speeder When Another Car Shot Into Side Street Without Giving Signal In Time.

Motorcycle Officer Gus Kuehn was injured about the chest and his machine damaged Sunday afternoon while trailing a speeder down Broadway. Just ahead of Officer Kuehn was Ellsworth Snyder, a negro from Steep Rocks, who was driving an Overland car. At East O'Reilly street Snyder extended his hand and turned the car into the side street at the same time.

As a result of Snyder not giving the signal soon enough, Officer Kuehn nearly ran into the rear end of Snyder's car, but by quick work managed to swerve his motorcycle to one side which caused him to fall from the motorcycle, landing on his feet. The motorcycle's handle bars were badly bent.

Officer Kuehn placed Snyder under arrest on a charge of failing to give a signal in time, and this morning in police court Snyder entered a plea of guilty. He said he had been driving about two months. Judge Schirick imposed a fine of $3 and Snyder agreed to stand for the bill of repairs to the motorcycle which will be about $5.

Officer Kuehn had just returned from his annual vacation Saturday and resumed his duties Sunday morning. He informed Judge Schirick this morning that he still suffered pain in the chest, but he was able to be out and around.

NO CHANGE IN ALASKAN POLICY

President's Trip Convinces Him No One Department Should Have Complete Control.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Aboard U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding enroute to Vancouver, July 23.—President Harding came to Alaska with an open mind concerning his Alaska policy, and he is going out today after a fifteen days tour a fairly strong conservationist. When he entered the territory there was a well defined division of opinion among the Americans accompanying him over the cabinet's policies, particularly whether control over the great territory should be vested in a single department.

Secretary of the Interior Work believed it should and favored the department of the interior having complete domination of everything from forests to seals.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace strongly opposed this and apparently has won his fight. At any rate control of the vast territorial forests will continue to be vested in the agricultural department where they have been while the interior and war departments will continue their existing spheres.

SAYS WILLARD QUIT IN FIGHT

Didn't Train Much Either, Asserts Jack Skelly, Who Was in Charge For Bout With Firpo.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Yonkers, July 23.—"Seventy-five thousand sucker fans paid their good money to see Jess Willard take a soft flop in his fight with Firpo," said Jack Skelly today, in charging that the big Kansan did not train properly for his bout and that he was not knocked out and could have continued.

Skelly who was in charge of Willard's training both for the Firpo fight and the Floyd Johnson match which preceded it, declared that he believed Willard never had an idea he would get a match with Dempsey and that he went into the Firpo match with the deliberate intention of fading out of the picture as soon as the going got rough.

"I haven't said anything before," said Skelly, "but you can tell 'em I did everything I could to make Willard train and make him fight when he stacked up against Firpo.

"In the sixth round of the fight, when Willard was going all right, there was talk from Ray Archer, Willard's manager, of having me throw the towel into the ring. I refused to fall for that and said:

"What's the idea?

"Then when big Jess went down on his knees in the eighth it was right near me. I yelled at him and said: 'You're all right. Get up,' and pleaded with him to rise but he just looked at me as if to say: 'Go to blazes.'

"When he did get up after the count I thought perhaps he was hurt and rushed to him with the smelling salts but he pushed me to one side and then posed for the photographer.

"What got me is that after the fight he left me flat and never came near me. He never had a word of thanks for any of us around here who tried to help him.

"The fans who paid their good money to see that fight didn't get a fair shake, as I see it. Their money puts him on easy street and just bowed out gracefully as if they were a bunch of suckers."

Skelly said that he never learned until after the fight that Willard did not put in the hours of training that he has been told were part of the daily grind. He declared his shadow boxing in his dressing room just before the bout was almost pathetic.

CALIFORNIA HAS AN EARTHQUAKE

Buildings Shaken Badly in Southern Part of State—Only One Known to Be Hurt.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Bernardino, Cal., July 23.—With San Bernadino apparently the center, a series of earth tremors were felt throughout southern California late Sunday night and early today. There were four distinct shocks.

At least one man was hurt here when the Hall of Records collapsed, bringing down tons of rock.

The tremors began at 11:35 o'clock Sunday night, lasting until 12:55 o'clock this morning.

The first and longest shock lasted ten seconds.

The second story of the San Bernardino hospital was badly damaged.

Plate glass windows in stores were smashed.

Brick walls of the Patton State Insane Asylum building were reported to have cracked open.

Mohave reported shocks also.

Quakes were felt by cities along the San Andres foot hills, but no reports were received from the Imperial Valley. It is believed, however, that shocks were felt there.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23.—Two earthquakes were felt here at midnight, but so far as could be learned immediately afterward no damage was done in or around this city. The tremors were stronger at Hollywood, the great moving picture colony, than in Los Angeles.

The first shock, which lasted ten seconds, came at 11:35 o'clock Sunday night. Immediately afterward there was another tremor which was lighter and of shorter duration.

The earthquake was reported to have been felt as far north as Santa Barbara, on the coast and as far south as San Diego. It extended inland at least as far as San Bernardino.

(The distance between Santa Barbara and San Diego is approximately 240 miles with Los Angeles in the center. San Bernardino is 59 miles inland.)

Up to an early hour no property damage had been reported here from any of the points which felt the shocks.

Long Beach, San Pedro and other ocean front cities reported strong disturbances.

The quake was felt in widely separated parts of Los Angeles.

Theatres here had been closed for half an hour or more before the tremors began. No disturbance on the part of the public was reported.

Throughout this city burglar alarms were "tripped" and police station sent speeding squads to answer the calls.

The shock is believed to have extended as far east as Needles, according to railroad officials. They told of reports from stations that far reporting the trembler.

The shock here was reported as a circular swaying. Clocks were stopped in the district at 11:31 p. m.

Redlands, Cal., July 23.—The fire wall of the Studebaker building was shaken loose, the fire wall on the Wheaton building dislodged and fronts of stores caved in during an earthquake shock here late last night.

The Studebaker building wall collapsed on the roof of a furniture store adjoining and the roof was damaged.

George R. Fisher, 56, was in the Richardson building and was struck when a stone from the Hall of Records building plunged through the roof of the Richardson building. Fisher's hands were crushed and his head bruised.

Damage here is estimated at $3,500. The greatest damage in other sections was believed to have been caused at Redlands, where windows were shattered, chimneys knocked down and other minor damage suffered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

So Mrs. Charles Reunion today explained her husband's murder of John Williams, 19, an employe and his own suicide, at their farm home in the town of Philadelphia last night.

ANOTHER N. Y. MARVEL; MODERN PIED PIPER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 23.—New York possesses a modern pied piper of Hamelin. He is John Rogoff, a Latvian, who can compel rats to follow him by his whistling.

John's neighbors on the East Side would not believe him so he arranged a demonstration. In darkened room John tuned up. After a few bars of some wild Latvian melody bright eyes were seen peeping from holes in the wainscoting. A few more warbles and there was a scurry of feet.

Spectators said that the rats seemed to scurry with jazzy steps as they darted forth to the tune of the melody. John had made good.

He said he learned rat whistling in Latvia.

SHAWANGUNK FIRE IS CONTROLLED

Much Brush Land Burned Over But No Buildings Damaged and No One Hurt—State Official In Charge of Several Hundred Fire Fighters—No Fire In Catskills.

The forest fire which has been burning in the Shawangunk mountains back of the Dr. Foord Sanitarium at Kerhonkson and back toward Ellenville since last Wednesday was today reported under control and unless something unforseen in the shape of high winds are encountered it is expected that the fire will be extinguished. A force of several hundred men divided in parties of from 30 to 40 men have been constantly working for several days to extinguish the fire. A very large area of territory has been burned over but very little valuable timber has been destroyed, the fire being chiefly in brush lands.

The fire started several days ago back of the Dr. Foord Sanitarium and spread rapidly in the direction of Minnewaska. Several parties were sent out in an effort to check the fire from spreading but on account of the severe drought and extremely dry condition of the woods the task was difficult. Men were sent from Ellenville and the other villages in the Rondout valley and employes from the Dr. Foord Sanitarium and from Lake Mohonk and Minnewaska were sent into the woods under the direction of local fire wardens.

The efforts of the men were at first of no avail and District Ranger Todd of Arkville was summoned and took charge of the work. The situation became so serious that Assistant Superintendent W. G. Howard of Albany came and is now in charge of the work. In the section where the fire burned there are numerous large boarding houses which for a time it was feared the flames might communicate to and consume but by means of back-fires and other means the flames were turned away and today reported as burning toward Lake Minnewaska.

So far as is known no buildings have been destroyed by the flames but a vast area of small trees and brush land has been destroyed. Every available man in the section has been called upon to assist in combating the fire and the work has been going on night and day. As soon as one party became exhausted another party was organized to replace it and the exhausted men were given a chance to rest before returning to the work. The fire was attacked at several different points by parties of men who used every possible method to stop the spread of the flames.

The ranger on duty at the New York State Fire station on Tremper mountain back of Phoenicia reported that so far as he could see there were no fires in the Catskill range. Monday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock the air cleared of haze and for a time the air was clear enough to see over the range of mountains which are observed from the tower on top of Tremper mountain. During the past few days the air has been extremely hazy making it difficult to see any great distance.

FIVE DRUNKS WERE ARRESTED HERE

It Only Takes a Drink Or So Of Stuff Sold In Kingston To Make a Man Forget All He Ever Knew—After Two Drinks Slumber Follows.

Judging from the stories told by those arrested lately on charges of public intoxication in Kingston one drink will make you dizzy and the second cause you to forget your own name or where you live. All who have been arrested claimed to have had but a drink or so and that was all they remembered until they awoke behind the bars. This morning the usual lineup after a week end faced Judge Schirick in police court.

Charles Chaplin a one-legged traveling salesman who claimed Poughkeepsie as his home, was fined $5 but being without funds will spend five days at 1818 Wall street.

John Jones of Hurley; Harrison Smith, a negro of this city and Joseph Killoren of New York; were fined $5 each for the same offense. They did not have any money left and unless they find some quickly will be registered at 1818 Wall street for five days each.

Hugo Schreiber, arrested Saturday afternoon downtown by Officer Keresman for public intoxication, forfeited his bail bond of $25 by failure to appear. Judge Schirick also issued a warrant for Hugo's arrest.

ARRESTED FOR GRAND LARCENY

Frank W. Thompson of Troy, Maine, Taken on Farm of A. H. Cook at Lake Katrine For Absconding With City Funds.

Wanted for grand larceny in the taking of $5,947.75, Frank W. Thompson alias Frank W. Thomas, was taken into custody this morning at the farm of Albert H. Cook at Lake Katrine. The arrest was made by Sheriff Kelts, who with Deputies Seth Jocelyn and Anderson V. Ellsworth, Sergeant James Cunningham and State Trooper Alsdorf, went to the farm, accompanied by R. A. Quilty, a Pinkerton detective of New York. The information and warrant was made out by Charles S. Taylor, trial justice, and charges Thompson with absconding with the above amount in February. He had $880 when arrested. Thompson was tax collector and city treasurer of Troy, Wales county, Maine, and the money taken was city funds. Mr. Cook says he has been employed by him on the farm since about April 15. When questioned at the court house before being placed in jail, he stated he was unmarried, a carpenter by trade and 38 years of age. He was traced to this section by Detective Quilty who has been in otuch with Sheriff Kelts and Under Sheriff Haulenbeek, and for the past few days it was known that he was employed on the Cook farm. The posse went to make the arrest as it was feared Thompson might be working in the field and would try to make a getaway if he became suspicious. He was found at the barn and made no protest when informed that he was under arrest. Pending the receipt of extradition papers he will be detained in jail until their arrival when he will be taken to Maine.

SUMMER BOARDER HIT BY AUTO

Christina Zimmer of Brooklyn, a summer boarder, was struck by an auto driven by Raymond Green of Tillson Saturday evening at Maple Hill, and badly injured. She was rushed to the Kingston City Hospital by Rudolph Zeigler of Lawrenceville, and it was found that she had sustained a fractured leg and arm, and a broken rib, and was bruised about the body. According to Green's story as reported to police headquarters he was driving along the road and saw four women walking ahead of his car. Three of the women crossed to the other side of the road, but the fourth was hit when she attempted to cross over. Green claimed he blew a warning signal, and his statement was borne out by the other occupants of his car.

THE CLEAN SKY

"Well," said the Sky to Mr. Sun, "I'm a very clean sky today."

"You are—what did you say you were?" Mr. Sun asked.

"I'm a very clean sky today," repeated the Sky. "My messengers have brought me word that even the earth people have spoken about it. Yes, even they have spoken about it."

"But I don't understand," said Mr. Sun.

"My messengers came to me today and they told me that the people down on the earth had looked up at me and had said: 'Look at the wind-swept sky.' And what they said was perfectly true. The wind had been a strong one today.

"Yes, Mr. Wind was feeling his best! And he came up to me with his jolly old windy broom and he brushed me until my clouds did look very much wind-swept."

"Ha, ha," laughed Mr. Sun, "of course I understand now. How stupid of me not to have understood before. But it did sound strange to hear you say you were such a clean sky. I considered you always a clean sky."

"Well," said the Sky, "I am pretty clean. In fact, I'm very clean. But some days I am a little shinier and more polished up and spruced up than on others. Everyone is that way. Even the sky!

"Very Much Wind-Swept."

"Of course you do not see me when I am dismal looking. You make me feel spruced up. You're like some one for whom one wants to look one's best. You know some one may want to put on a best frock because of going to a party and because of having the party people see one's best.

"Yes, that is the way you are. Well, I am sometimes not so careful. Sometimes I'm quite cloudy and dark looking. I look as though I needed to be fixed up much better. And sometimes I get to scowling and great dark clouds come along.

"It's not altogether my fault. I have to let the King of the Clouds have a chance. Then, too, when he talks my face wrinkles up—it just does, and it always has.

"I'm told the King of the Clouds does a lot of good with the flowers and the crops and settling the dust, and all sorts of good things, such as that. So I give the King of the Clouds plenty of chances.

"My messengers came and told me curious stories of the earth people. They heard one little girl speaking about a house and she said:

"'Oh, don't you know that house? Why, that is next to the dog's house.'

"My messengers thought, of course, she must have meant a dog's house which she could see out in a yard but she meant a real house. She called it the dog's house because to her the dog was the most important member of the family. But, Mr. Sun, I do like my clouds when the wind sweeps them. And what a jolly old windy broom he has.

"He brushes across me with such a flourish and makes me have an interesting spread-out look. And as he brushes he sings a song.

"Did you ever hear his song, Mr. Sun?" the Sky asked of Mr. Sun, and Mr. Sun said he had never heard it, and that it would give him great pleasure if the Sky would sing the song for him.

"I've not much of a voice," said the Sky, modestly, "but at least I can let you know the words."

And then the Sky began Mr. Wind's Sky-Brusher:

I'm de[illegible] the sky
Y[illegible]ving that high
[illegible]here
[illegible]ere
[illegible] sky as clean
As I ever has been
I'm a jolly old sweeper, and I love my work
From this duty of mine I'll never shirk
Of course I don't need to clean the sky much
It stays so clean that I don't need to touch
It again for a long long time
After I've given it a sweep and a rhyme.

And Mr. Sun was good enough to say that he liked the singing as well as the words.

A FEW CONSERVES

There is no more delicious jam for occasional use than a properly blended conserve. This is the time of the year to fill the shelves for the winter. As conserves are a rich preserve very little is needed for a serving. A jelly glass should serve eight to ten people.

Plum Conserve.—Take one box of plums, one pound of pecans, four and one-half pounds of sugar, three pounds of raisins, four oranges, three lemons, rind and all, discarding the seeds. Grind all through a meat grinder and cook together until thick. Seal in jars.

Tomato Conserve.—Take five pounds of ripe tomatoes, two pounds of sugar, three lemons, put through the meat grinder, cook all together until thick, then add one and one-half cupfuls of raisins, one cupful of walnut meats and when scalding hot put into cans and seal.

Equal parts of crabapple and ripe tomatoes cooked and put through a sieve, then cooked with sugar to taste, makes a fine flavored marmalade.

Strawberry Preserves.—Take a quart of sugar and one cupful of water, boil until it hairs, now add three pints of strawberries and boil fifteen minutes, pour into an earthen dish and let stand over night. Can cold. Cherries may be canned in the same way.

Grape Conserve.—Take seven pounds of grapes, pulp and seed them, return the skin to the pulp. Grate the rind of four oranges and squeeze the juice add the juice of two lemons, boil together for fifteen minutes, add five pounds of sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, one pint of canned-drained cherries, one-half pound of pecan meats. Cook fifteen minutes with one cupful of the cherry juice. Can or put into glasses.

Transplanting Insects' Heads.

A remarkable experiment has been tried at the biological research laboratory of the Vienna Academy of Sciences by Dr. Walter Finkler who, in order to solve certain problems connected with the correlation of body and soul, cut off and exchanged the heads of insects duly narcotized. The head having been lifted out of the thorax socket, was severed from the trunk by a simple stroke of the scissors and transferred to another individual treated in the same manner. The blood thus escaping, which, by the state of narcosis, was reduced to a minimum immediately closed the edges of the wound and, without any seams or other means of fixation, merely in virtue of its natural adhesion kept the head in the position most suitable for healing.—Scientific American.

Wifely Supervision.

"I dunno why women want to nag so," complained Mr. Wombat.

"What's wrong now?"

"There's always something wrong. Either I'm home too late, or I'm home too early. Maybe I got dandruff on my coat collar or soup on my vest. It's this, that and the other. My wife is always finding some flaw."

"They mean it for our good, old man," advised his sagacious friend. "A wife wants her husband to appear at his best. To keep him so is a labor of love."

"Will it always be that way?"

"I fear so. Even if you were an angel your wife might well find a feather misplaced now and then."—Yonkers Statesman.

Conan Doyle on Dreams.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle never had a recurring dream. "But," he added, "I have several times had prophetic dreams, exact in detail. In sleep the soul is freed and has enlarged knowledge. This it endeavors to pass on to the body, but it seldom succeeds. When it does it is just at the moment between sleeping and waking."

Dr. C. H. Muncie.

Dr. Curtis H. Muncie, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been summoned by King Alfonso of Spain to perform an operation on Don Jaime, second son of the Spanish monarchs. The little prince suffers from congenital deafness, with consequent dumbness.

Rivers Under London.

There are several small rivers under modern London. The Enra, the main part of which now is inclosed in a sewer, formerly flowed through south London from Brixton Hill, emptying itself in the Thames. It is on record that Queen Elizabeth once rowed up this little river when she visited Sir Walter Raleigh at Brixton.

Can You Afford to Speculate?

EVERY time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually, in making their every-day purchases. And it is no unnecessary! The advertisements make it easy for any one to avoid taking a chance.

The merchant or manufacturer who advertises, realizes that the good-will of his customers means money in the bank to him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

So he makes the individual satisfaction of his patrons, their loyalty and their friendship paramount issues in his business.

When you buy an advertised product, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on its being right. You are making an investment.

But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. You are speculating.

TANNERSVILLE AND COLONIALS EVEN

Series Of Games Stands Two Each Following Locals' Defeat—Tannersville Hits Safely Eleven Times —Home Club Has Off Day.

The fourth installment of the series between the Colonials and Manager Julius Dolan's Tannersville club Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds resulted in the local club meeting defeat 7 to 4. The series between these two teams now stands two all.

With men on the sacks the mountaineers were most effective, hitting Rube Forsythe hard. Tannersville gathered eleven hits and together with seven errors counted for the seven runs. The Colonials hit Boyle for nine hits, but these hits did not come at the right time. Tannersville was credited with four errors.

In the first frame the Tannersville squad scored a run, started by Dugan who hit one along the first base line to right field for two bases. In the locals half of the initial round they made two runs taking the lead. McCue started the run making with a single over third. Deegan also hit safely and with an error on a high fly scored. In the third inning the score was tied with two safe blows and two sacrifices, counting for a run. Score two all. In the fifth Tannersville jumped into the lead when Dugan hit again and also Raskin, the stocky first baseman. In the Colonials half of the fifth they failed to score. This one run lead was not large enough for the visitors and in the sixth frame they crossed the rubber four times. Russel fumbled the first batter's blow, the second hitter hit safely and McCue dropped his chance, when he was too anxious to put the runner out at third on a grounder, filling the bases. The next hit went to Russel who booted, but recovered in time to shoot it to Robins, who also dropped, letting the run in and again filling the bases. A hit scored two more runs and another hit scored the fourth run. Score Tannersville 7, Colonials 2.

In the last half of this busy inning the Colonials made a run, cutting down the lead. In the ninth inning it looked as if the local ball club might tie the score when with Deegan to the plate and two on, after McCue had crossed the plate he hit a hard one which looked like a circuit blow but did not get past the fence and was captured.

Fitzsimmons from Tannersville umpired balls and strikes. The usual large Sunday crowd was present.

Raskin got the batting honors of the day, reaching first base five times, an error by Robins, a walk and three hits. Jack McAuliffe of the Peekskill A. C. team was in a Colonial uniform Sunday. He is a pitcher and may be with the Colonials.

STAMFORD LOSES TO COLONIALS

Saturday in Stamford 7 to 1—Culloton Pitches Excellent Ball Again Allowing Three Hits—Local Club Gets 16 Safe Blows.

Saturday at Stamford the Colonial baseball squad defeated the home club by a 7 to 1 score. Bud Culloton pitching his usual brand of good ball set the Mountaineers down with but three hits, while the local club made sixteen hits off Subert and Tracy.

Swat Russel led the Schirickmen in batting making four out of four. Coyle followed with three hits.

One error was recorded against each club. Russel missed a grounder in the third, the inning the Stamford club made its only run. Roche playing third base made the error for Stamford.

The Colonials started the scoring in the second frame with one run. The score was tied in the third when Stamford brought over its run. In the fifth the Schirickmen took the lead gathering in two runs. At this time Manager Keating sent Tracy in the box in the place of Subert.

In the ninth inning the Colonials added four more runs, making sure of the contest. Russel started with a hit and was safe at second when Culloton sacrificed him down with a bunt. McCue followed with a single scoring Russel. Coyle also hit safely putting McCue on third. Fogarty loaded the bases when he was walked. On Deegan's hit McCue and Coyle scored. Deegan scored on Short's hit for the fourth run. Short of the Red Hook team played the right field position in Dahn's stead.

The Stamford club had been hitting a fast clip lately, but the heavy hitting of the Colonials and the excellent pitching of Culloton broke the winning streak of the Stamford club.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 23, 1923.

Once more it is shown that a poem or song of lasting quality can not be made to order. The $1,000 prize offered for a new Yale University song has not been awarded because, in the opinion of the committee of award, none of the 162 manuscripts offered in competition was of sufficient merit for the purpose.

The Wisconsin legislature has adopted twenty resolutions addressing Congress in behalf of new Federal laws and constitutional amendments. In the old times states were jealous of the right to govern themselves; now they seem to be mostly concerned about means of governing other states.

The French are likely to remain encamped in the Ruhr a long time if they insist with Poincare on holding the Germans to the amount of reparations fixed at the London Conference, now that Great Britain and the other nations seem to have forgotten the war's scars and to be interested only in trade with Germany.

WEBSTER'S SANE VIEW.

How far away is the present rigidly narrow interpretation of the Volstead act, as applied to the ships of foreign nations, is separated from the time-honored American view of international law and comity may be seen from an 81-year-old utterance of Daniel Webster, who, in writing as Secretary of State to Lord Ashburton in 1842, gave expression to certain widely recognized principles as follows:

"The rule of law and the comity and practice of nations allow even to a merchant vessel, coming into any open port of another country voluntarily and for the purpose of lawful trade, to bring with her, and to keep over her, to a very considerable extent, the jurisdiction and authority of the laws of her own country, excluding, to this extent, by consequence, the jurisdiction of the local law. A ship, say the publicists, though at anchor in a foreign harbor, preserves its jurisdiction and its laws. It is natural to consider the vessels of a nation as parts of its territory, though at sea, as the state retains jurisdiction over them; and, according to the commonly received custom, this jurisdiction is preserved over the vessels, even in parts of the sea subject to a foreign dominion.

THE UNDERPAID PREACHER.

In the established Church of England, wherein bishops are members of the House of Lords and rectors receive sufficient remuneration to enable them and their families to "keep up appearances," a clergyman can be what is called a "gentleman" and is treated as such socially. In America the conditions are different. Here Episcopalian as well as other ministers are too often confronted with the problem—and all it involves—of the underpaid preacher. In the United States the average clergyman receives smaller reward than the members of any other profession, often smaller in these times than the wages of common laborers, and rarely commensurate with his position even when his congregation is largely made up of wealthy people. Comment of this from the pulpit is rare, presumably being regarded as contrary to the canons of good taste, but recently Dr. Malcolm J. McLeod of the Church of St. Nicholas in New York spoke out, and what he said is of general interest.

He asserted that because of his small salary the clergyman has a continual fight on his hands to maintain appearances and at the same time keep clear of debt, to educate his family and buy needed books without loading himself with debts he can never hope to pay. "How can any mortal interpret the laws of civic betterment," asks Dr. McLeod, "not to speak of the laws of the Kingdom of God, if he can not favorably look his fellow-man in the face? How can a woman be a leader in the missionary society if her husband owes the butcher and the baker, whose wives are sitting down there in front listening to her?"

The needed reform thus indicated can begin only within the churches, but the public in general may take a rightful interest in Dr. McLeod's hint that church members want their pastor to hold a somewhat subordinate and parasitic place in the social scheme, because the more secure a man's financial standing the more independent he is likely to be in his criticism of contemporary customs and morals. A more searching and significant comment on the state of "religion" in churches of our time, particularly "fashionable" churches, could hardly be made in a few words.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is the nursery rhyme about ladybugs and their flying away home, just nonsense, or is there any truth in it?

According to Lutz's Fieldbook on Insects, the jingle originated in Europe, and refers to the fact that hopvines—much infected with plant lice—are usually burned to clean up the field after harvest. The ladybug and her "children" or larvae, both feed on these lice. The rhyme advises the adult winged ladybug to rush home and rescue her wingless children who can't get away from the burning vines.

2. Are snakes kept in domestic conditions to catch rats?

Better say they are allowed the freedom of domestic conditions, as in southern Asia. Zamanis mucosus, often 8 feet long, is a good rat catcher, and in parts of its range is protected. In parts of India anyone killing this snake is liable to a fine. Zoo specimens are rarely shown, as the snake is nervous and irritable, and when caged will batter its head against the glass.

3. Are all young birds that take to water, covered with down when they hatch?

No, the young of the Brandt cormorant, for instance have no feathers when hatched, and their skin is dark and shiny, compared by one ornithologist to "a greasy black kid glove." They become down-covered in due time, however.

THERMO-SYPHON cooling is "natural" cooling—a system under which the water circulates around the cylinders as your motor warms to its work.

The Gardner Four is cooled by thermo-syphon—first because it is an efficient principle; and second because it is simple, without the complex machinery of a pump.

Thermometer tests show that the Gardner, after the most gruelling run, maintains an absolutely even temperature at all cylinders.

This feature contributes largely not only to the efficient performance of your motor, but to its long life.

41 DESPERADOES ESCAPE "BULL PEN"

After Mortally Wounding Two Guards—13 Recaptured in Fierce Battle—Southern Illinois Barricades Homes and Organizes Chasing Parties.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chester, Ill., July 23.—Southern Illinois was engaged in a desperate man hunt today as officials sought to round up twenty-seven convicts sentenced to the state hospital for criminal insane, who escaped last night in a general break for liberty. Forty-one men originally fled from the prison "bull pen" but of these one man was killed and thirteen others have been captured and returned to their cells.

The wildest alarm gripped this section of the state last night when it became known the men had escaped. Included in their number, according to authorities, are some of the nation's most desperate criminals. It was not expected early today that they would be retaken without a battle.

Sheriff's posses and groups of citizens took the road when the towns nearby were notified. Citizens barricaded themselves within their homes. The posses are heavily armed and will not take chances with any of the men whom they should meet. They are ordered to shoot quick at least sign of resistance.

Officials at the prison were too excited to announce names of those who escaped.

The man shot was an inmate of the asylum named Jackson. He was shot down by a guard as he felled another guard with a blow from a gas pipe.

The break for liberty took place as the prisoners were being given an airing—a daily routine. The men charged the guards who were unarmed in conformance with state law, and felled them with knives. Two of the guards were probably mortally stabbed. Then the prisoners attacked the wire netting which surrounded the bull pen and soon ripped a hole in it. Between them and freedom then was only a low picket fence.

Guards who seized guns and rushed to the fray as sounds of the melee were heard, were attacked, but poured rifle fire into the fleeing men. Those who had not already reached the fence were cowed and returned.

Ralph Dilbay and another guard named Denny were the men stabbed. Dr. Frank A. Stubblefield, who is at the head of the institution, was knocked unconscious in the fighting.

The thirteen captured men were found in a cemetery shortly after their escape. They were beaten into submission by guards who used their rifles as clubs. The prisoners fought back with clubs and other weapons.

FEDERAL AID FOR WHEAT GROWERS

Extensive Credits Available—Co-operatives Must Have "Practical" Plans—That Of Withholding 200,000,000 Bushels Not Favored.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 23—The Federal Farm Loan Board looks with disapproval upon plans of national agricultural organizations to save American farmers from financial ruin by withholding 200,000,000 bushels of wheat from the market until the price goes up, but is preparing nevertheless to extend every possible aid to the wheat growing, it was learned at the treasury department today.

Credit will be extended through the newly created intermediate banks, established in each of the 12 cities, where federal land banks are located, but the board will require compliance with the terms of the act, in distribution of loans out of the $600,000,000 congress made available to the farmers under the rural credits act. The Federal Reserve Board and the War Finance Corporation are actively cooperating with the Farm Loan Board in perfecting its program for "orderly marketing" of the wheat crop and other agricultural products. The full resources of the reserve system, officials said, are available to aid agriculture.

Officials made it plain that co-operative farming groups by adopting "practical" measures will find the government in readiness to respond with liberal credit. But it was emphasized that the government does not endorse the plan of the American Farm Bureau Federation or similar plans. The suggested withdrawal of 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and its storage on farms, with aid of government credit, would not be practical, officials said, because it would not be legal to extend a farmer 75 per cent of the value of his wheat crop and then permit him to hold the wheat in his own bins.

The official also discouraged the idea that the government could go to the point of designating farmers' barns as "bonded warehouses" and then make loans on the certificates of grain so stored.

Prediction of earlier recovery of the wheat market was voiced generally by close students of agricultural conditions. They recalled a similar situation a year ago when the market tumbled about harvest time and then went upward sharply in mid-autumn.

Ralph Brooks, a negro, is in the Ulster county ajil to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assault in the second degree. He was arrested by Sergeant James Cunningham, of the state troopers, and arraigned before Justice of the Peace De Cicco of East Kingston on Sunday, where he pleaded not guilty and waived examination. Brooks, it is alleged, struck a fellow worker at the Rose brickyard over the nose with a leaf of a wagon spring, almost severing the nose. Another negro, it is said, held the man assaulted while Brooks wielded the weapon.

HOWARD MOTOR VEHICLE DIRECTOR

Kingston Lawyer Takes Charge Of Important State Bureau Wednesday—Gilchrist Announces Campaign To Reduce Number Of Accidents.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, July 23.—President Gilchrist of the State Tax Department announced on Saturday the Appointment of Robert J. Howard of Kingston, as director of the State Motor Vehicle Bureau and in a statement declared immediate steps would be taken toward solving the present serious traffic problem.

Mr. Howard, who succeeds Bert Lord, is a lawyer, a leading member of the Ulster County Bar Association and active in automobile circles. He will take office on Wednesday, July 25, and while his headquarters will be with the State Tax Department in Albany, he will spend half of his time in Greater New York.

"The traffic problem," said President Gilchrist in announcing the Howard appointment, "is one of the biggest and most difficult problems confronting the State today. The Motor Vehicle Bureau must do something more than issue 1,300,000 plates, license over half a million chauffeurs and operators and collect legal fees, totaling from $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually. That, of course, in itself is a big problem but not the biggest one before the department.

"Plans must be formulated with the powerful aid of magistrates, state and local police authorities and various automobile associations, which, when inaugurated, will reduce the number of accidents and deaths and make the streets and public highways safer for our citizens. We propose to undertake at once to solve that problem."

Mr. Howard who is a member of the Ulster county bar, with office at 288 Wall street, resides at 213 Elmendorf street. He received notice on Saturday of his appointment with instructions to report at Albany July 25, to take the oath required. The position pays a salary of $5,000 a year. Mr. Howard was for several years in the offices of Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier, but later opened a law office in the Leventhal building He is a Democrat politically and was the candidate of that party for the office of county clerk two years ago. At present he is stenographer for the Ulster county board of elections. Mr. Howard is a past exalted ruler of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E. He was at one time connected with the law office of Arthur C. Connelly and recently opened a law office in New Paltz. His many friends will be pleased to learn of his appointment to this most important position.

RODE HIS BIKE INTO AUTOMOBILE

Joseph Coker, 13 years old, of No. 143 St. James street, had a narrow escape from serious injury Saturday when he ran his new bicycle into the automobile driven by Clarence Rowland on Broadway in front of the city hall. The lad was removed to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found that he had sustained a number of bruises. He later was taken to his home.

That day Coker and another young lad namer Hendricks rode up to the city hall and then coasted down the steep incline into Broadway. Coker must have lost control of his bicycle for he shot across the street and struck Rowland's auto Coker was hurled from his wheel by the force of the impact and landed on top of the hood of the car and slid along the top of it and landed on the brick pavement The wheel fell under the auto was badly wrecked before Rowland could bring his car to a stop.

Coker graduated with honor from grammar school last month and for standing so high in his studies had been presented with the bicycle by his parents.

Mr. Rowland stated after the accident that he did not see the boy until the bicycle crashed into his auto.

A tempest raging through the endless black night.

Two figures waited with breathless horror for the crack of doom!

Here's a drama of the screen that you'll gasp at. It's packed with mystery and thrills, and told so dramatically and convincingly that you'll think you're right there taking part in a great adventure. Here's a picture that will hold you from the first flash to the gripping Last Moment!

Wednesday—"THE TOWN THAT FORGOT GOD"

What will your children eat during the hot vacation days?

Too much meat in summer overheats the blood; too much starchy food often interferes with digestion.

Children must have plenty of energy-producing food, but it must be wisely chosen.

Grape-Nuts is a safe and satisfying summer food. It supplies the energizing nutriment of wheat and barley, together with the natural mineral elements which many foods lack.

Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food, crisp and delicious, easily digested and quickly assimilated.

Your grocer has interesting details of our offer of over $7500.00 for Grape-Nuts Recipes. Ask him about it TODAY; or write to Recipe Dept., Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

15 BILLIONS IS VALUE PLACED ON EDISON'S GENIUS

Long List of Industries Founded Upon His Inventions.

GIVES WORK TO 1,500,000

There is one human brain that has a hard cash market value today, in the business and industrial world, of $15,000,000,000. Billions is correct, not millions. That is within 20 per cent of equaling the value of all the gold dug from the mines of the earth since America was discovered, says the New York Times.

The brain is that of Thomas Alva Edison, who many a time has said to his cronies, "Well, if worse comes to worst, I've got a good trade. I can always make $75 a month as an expert telegraph operator and I can live comfortably on that."

The $15,000,000,000 represents the present investment in America alone in industries which are entirely based on the inventions of Edison of which have been materially stimulated by his inventions. Several of the country's largest industries are included.

Here is the list, and it touches only the high spots. It shows either the capital or the total investment, according to the latest dependable estimates:

Moving pictures	$1,250,000,000
Telephones	1,000,000,000
Electric railways	6,500,000,000
Electric lighting and power	5,000,000,000
Electrical supplies	867,000,000
Fixtures	27,000,000
Phonographs	105,000,000
Electric car shops	100,000,000
Dynamos and motors	100,000,000
Edison storage batteries	5,000,000
Cement	271,000,000
Telegraph	350,000,000
Wireless telegraph	15,000,000

The total is $15,500,000,000.

It will at once be objected that Edison did not invent the telephone, for instance. True. But he did invent the carbon transmitter—he is said to have sold it for $100,000—without which the telephone would not have been commercially practicable on a large scale.

If there are items in the table which in fairness should not be entirely placed to Edison's credit, there are still others not mentioned at all which would in the aggregate run his brain value up to more than the total as given.

Take copper, for example. It came to the fore with the growth of electricity. Indirectly it was Edison who made it the spectacular metal, as a result of copper's merits as a conductor.

How It Analyzes.

A little analysis helps to make the market worth of Edison more comprehensible. The number of persons employed in the industries of the Edison brain-value table is more than 1,500,000. Moving pictures, electric railways and the telephone have 300,000 a piece. Electrical supplies and the telegraph overtop 200,000 each. Electric lighting keeps 100,000 employees busy. The other industries in the list run from 10,000 to 30,000. Central station, electrical service of all sorts, forming America's fifth largest industry, has 500,000 employees.

The annual income of the people who have jobs because Edison had ideas—the aggregate wage and salary account of the specified industries—is $1,604,000,000. In 1919 the total gross sales value, at point of production, in five of the industries was $1,467,701,529. Electrical machines, appliances and supplies alone came to almost $1,000,000,000. The baby item, was fixtures, at $42,267,593.

It is all the development of 46 years. Edison was born in 1847. In 1868 he patented his first machine, an electric vote counter. The congressmen of the day wanted nothing less than they wanted that. He got his first big invention money, $40,000, for a stock ticker, an improved model, in 1870. It was not till 1877, however, that he produced the first of the devices that have piled up the fifteen-billion-dollar investment in thousands of plants and factories. In that year he brought forth the telephone transmitter and the phonograph. The latter lay idle for years.

Hundreds of Patents.

All in all, Edison has taken out more patents than any other individual. In "Edison, His Life and Inventions," by Frank L. Dyer and Thomas C. Martin, a list of more than a thousand patents, complete to 1900, covers 27 pages, aside from 1,239 foreign patents. By 1917 the total had passed the 1,500 mark, even though in late years Edison devoted himself chiefly to perfecting his work. To the total must be added the 40 inventions which Edison contributed as president of the naval consulting board and which were in use or ready to use at the end of the war. All this is the result, as Edison says facetiously, of two short lives; he has always worked 16 hours a day or thereabouts. Money has not been his object, save as it enabled him to pursue his work.

Years ago Mr. Dyer, his biographer and patent attorney, was discussing with Edison a new invention, a machine for taking pictures on a continuous strip of negative. When they had discussed and decided the details of the American patent application, Mr. Dyer said: "And do you want a patent in England, too?"

"How much will it cost?" Edison asked.

"Oh, about $50."

Edison reflected. "No. Never mind England. It isn't worth $50."

From that invention came one of the leading industries of America today.

Edison has testified that he invented the kinetograph in 1885. The device took 40 pictures a second on an endless tape. It was not the apparatus for the reproduction of the pictures, enlarged, on a screen. The first reproductions were made without enlargement. The claims of others to vital additions to the moving picture rest only, according to Edison, on producing apparatus.

In 1877 Edison started planning a little machine that is now in the South Kensington museum, London. He had to weigh carefully the probable value of it before he spent $18 on having a model made. The machine talked. In 1919 the United States had 186 factories making phonographs and graphophones. The capital investment was $105,000,000, the annual payroll $34,000,000 and the value of products $158,500,000. Yet in Mr. Dyer's book, published in as late as 1910, phonographs and moving pictures were lumped together in one item.

His Part in Electric Lighting.

Last September a dinner was held in New York to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the first commercial use of the electric light. Edison himself had remodeled a gas chandelier in his Menlo Park home in 1879—it was exhibited at the Electrical show in New York last year—but the first commercial electric light station was the Pearl street plant, Manhattan. It had an initial capacity of 3,477 15-candlepower (50 watt) lamps and a customers' list of 59 names. This was the foundation of all modern electric light and power systems.

The New York Edison company now has a capacity of 21,500,000 50-watt lamps and has 214,000 customers. It is estimated that $4,250,000,000 is invested in the electric lighting business in the United States. The last collected figures show 6,542 central stations which cost $3,000,392,141. Classed as generating stations there were 5,824, costing $2,052,423,577.

The first electric railroad was evolved in New Jersey, when, in 1883, Edison built a three-mile line near his plant. It made as good as 40 miles an hour and sometimes hauled freight cars to the laboratory. Today electric railways, including railroad lines and interurban lines, as well as street systems, have 48,000 miles of track and more than 105,000 cars, electric locomotives and trailers. They carry 12,000,000,000 passengers a year.

The telephone, made practicable by Edison, had grown in 1922 to a total of 13,380,219 telephones in use. The Bell system employees number 224,288 and are kept busy on 27,810,821 miles of wire. The American Telephone and Telegraph company's capital in 1921 was $632,216,253 and its assets $1,902,510,501. About 25,000,000,000 messages are handled a year.

Telegraph and Other Things.

Edison made a quadruplex telegraph that carried four messages simultaneously, and then he made a sextuplex. Though he has had no direct connection with the telegraph business, aside from having earned his bread at it in his youth, he is responsible in part for its present scope.

There are more and more Edison devices, some of them not included in the $15,000,000,000 itemization.

Cement is listed in the Edison column because he was the first to increase the length of kilns from 60 to 150 feet, raising the daily capacity from 200 barrels to 1,000. Almost all portland cement is now manufactured under the Edison plan.

His phonograph lay unmarketed for years because the time did not seem propitious. So it was with his radio inventions. He antedated Hertz, Thomson and others in radio telegraphy. In his application for a patent in 1885 he predicted the use of wireless in saving life at sea. The patent was granted in 1891. Some of its features were discovered by Marconi in independent research, and Edison sold the patent to Marconi in 1903. When it was granted there was no demand for it, and he had learned early in life not to waste time unless there was a prospect of success.

Edison's work has raised the usefulness of steam engines. To figure out a dollars-and-cents credit for him on this score would be a bigger job than taking a census. His labors have increased the demand for silk, cotton, bitumen, oils, wax, platinum, zinc, nickel and iron. From his incandescent bulb have come hosts of inventions of other men.

A few days ago the organization of the Electrical Board of Trade of the City of New York brought out the fact that the electrical industry there does an annual business of a billion dollars. Such are some of the marvels that followed the work of one man who occasionally kept on the job 50 or 60 hours at a stretch and who once lost $27,000 through forgetting that he held a mortgage on a building.

Building Biggest Submarine.

England is to have the biggest and most powerful submarine in the world when the X-1 is completed, at Chatham. The ship weighs 3,600 tons, carries a 12-inch gun, and will be the speediest in the world, it is said.

Strip and Bury Stolen Cars.

Accused of stealing automobiles, stripping them of available parts, and then burying them in a swamp near his home, Stephen Grumbush, of Flint, Mich., was sent to prison for five to ten years. He pleaded guilty.

Her "Long" Mind.

The teacher was giving out some pieces to speak for the last day of school, and one rather lengthy verse she hesitated about for a moment; but Ruth raised her hand and exclaimed: "Let me speak that, please; I won't forget, 'cause I have a long mind."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 23.—Irregularity marked trading at the opening of the stock market today. Price changes were narrow and transactions were on a light scale. United States Steel was heavy, losing half a point to 91⅛. Bethlehem Steel was off ⅛ to 48½ and Baldwin ⅛ to 122½ while American Locomotive was unchanged at 69. Studebaker rose ⅛ to 107 but Stewart Warner lost ⅛ to 93.

The market was firm in the afternoon trading with the majority of the leading issues showing good gains.

Dull and irregular price movements marked the first two hours' trading. A tendency toward profit taking was apparent from the start, but good buying was met on all stocks. Equipment stocks came back. Baldwin and American Locomotive rose over one point to above 123½ and 70 respectively. The rest of the list held steady with gains ranging from a fraction to over one point.

FLICK GETS ONE TOO BIG FOR THE BASKET

Arthur Flick, local manager of the Beck-Hazzard shoe store on Wall street, arrived in town shortly before noon with one of the finest catches of trout which has been brought into town this season. In his basket were eight which measured up to sixteen inches and the "big one" was too much for the basket. It measured over 21 inches in length and weighed over 2½ pounds. The catch was made at Westkill. When Mr. Flick exhibited his prize catch to several old time fishermen in town they immediately began to make plans to go to Westkill to land some of the big ones.

WHERE DOBBIN LED

By MOLLIE MATHER

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

RICHARD STANDISH congratulated himself upon the silence and beauty of the situation. Here his problems might be solved; the intricate workings of the plan which troubled him brought to successful fulfillment. Then, too, his health would be benefited. His privileged housekeeper of many years' service had meaningly told him that his nerves were "pretty ragged on the edges."

Richard drew plans for great buildings and great bridges. He had decided to rent this old house in the country, after a chance auto drive in its direction.

Mrs. Brewster, his housekeeper, was interested in the garden. She enthused over the vegetables they were later to enjoy, and Richard absently agreed, but his happy peace was to be disturbed. Mrs. Brewster, her face red with indignation, came to him.

"Well, now!" she exclaimed, "If we haven't moved next door to fighting people—dictating to you what you'll do with this and that, an' you an architect. If Dobbin does wander into her back yard, need she write an impudent note?"

Richard, perplexed, brushed the hair from his forehead. "Dobbin?" he questioned.

"Dobbin is an old horse that the liveryman rented to me for the time of our stay here, so that I may drive into town and back with our marketing. And if he did get into that red-headed woman's garden—"

Richard interrupted. "Let me see the note," he said.

It was evidently a hurried note. "Your horse," the communication began abruptly, "is ruining my potato patch. He comes over and rolls on it. If you do not keep him stabled I'll have to charge you damage.—Nora O'Neil."

Richard, glancing from the window, saw an angular woman, with bright red hair, in the garden opposite.

"Dobbin," declared Richard, "must be kept away from Miss O'Neil's garden. I have no wish to enter into an argument with that determined person—and I don't want to pay for her potatoes."

He reached for a pad nearby and, lazily amused, scribbled a line:

"Dear Miss O'Neil: Pardon our wandering steed for trespassing. The liveryman did not inform us of his fondness for potatoes. We will endeavor to keep him stabled, notwithstanding the fact that we have no stable. If, however, he should again roam from the shed that shelters him you are at liberty to use any means at hand to drive him from your garden.—R. Standish, neighbor."

Distastefully the housekeeper delivered the note to the red-headed woman in the opposite inclosure—who as ungraciously took it.

To Richard, now seriously engaged with his drawings, came presently an answer.

"That idiotic animal is in my garden this moment. He has ruined about fifty dollars' worth of potato vines and is cavorting toward the lettuce bed. Instead of writing silly notes come and get him.—Nora O'Neil."

Richard, in his absorption, was in no mood to be rudely ordered regarding an old horse. But in Mrs. Brewster's eye was the light of enjoyable battle. If he was to live in continued peace in this retreat he would have to see the irate woman next door himself. Impatiently he went forth to the task. There was no one in view, so he strode on toward the vegetable garden, there to see a wildly-gesturing figure, almost obscured by a playful horse. Dobbin was giving the woman a chase. Then a huddled object in the potato patch caught his eye—a girl in blue, her cheeks rose-colored from evident exertion, her brown hair blown and curling. It was she who accosted Richard, rising angrily to her small height.

"Now," cried the girl, "you take that animal off yourself!"

Then, from behind the dividing fence, came, soothingly, Mrs. Brewster's voice: "Come, Dobbin, come." Obediently Dobbin came.

The red-headed woman stared at Richard, the little brown-haired one gazed at him reproachfully. "It was my first garden," she said, "and it took me so long to learn to be a farmerette, and I was going to carry on mother's old home every summer, and make money for us. And this year's work is almost completely spoiled."

Richard had been gazing into the soft blue eyes. Eagerly he grasped at the possibility of the last regretful sentence. "Almost," said Richard; "then you think there might still be hope for the garden?"

"They plant some potatoes in June," the girl answered, wonderingly.

"Then I'll tell you what," Richard suggested, "let me come over and help you with the new planting. You," he added, "could direct me. I'm only an architect."

"Why," his neighbor exclaimed, "you are kind. Mrs. Tyler, my helper while I'm here, led me to think that we were to have a hard time of it—"

"That," Mrs. Tyler grimly remarked, "was because of the impudence of that woman who works for him."

Richard's eyes met the girl's blue ones.

"Let me help you," he begged, surprised at his own earnestness.

Nora O'Neil put forth her hand, with her own entrancing smile. "I will be glad to," she said.

Why Horseshoe Is Good Luck.

The good luck generally supposed to be attached to a horseshoe comes from the fact that it has three ingredients that were considered fortunate by the ancients—iron, the shape of a crescent and something pertaining to a horse.

SEVERAL SPEEDERS WERE ARRESTED

Over the week-end three speeders were arrested here, and all furnished cash bail for their appearance later in police court. Morris Lawrence of Passaic, N. J., had his hearing adjourned to July 28; Hyman L. Chalif of New York and Albert Abelson of the same city each forfeited $15 cash bail by failure to appear.

Lewis Kellerman of First avenue, arrested by Officer Roedell on a charge of failing to obey traffic signals at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge, had his hearing adjourned to Thursday.

Pancho Villa.

Much bloodshed is expected in Mexico as a result of the murder, from ambush, of Francisco ("Pancho") Villa, ex-bandit chief, who was shot down near his immense estate at Parral, Mexico. Villa, who at one time commanded 35,000 men and captured Mexico City, led the infamous raid on Columbus, New Mexico, in which 17 Americans were assassinated, followed by General Pershing's expedition into Mexico.

Busy Berlin Thieves.

Burglars are so numerous in Berlin, Germany, that they are stumbling over each other. The city's plain clothes men have just discovered a case in which two gangs of thieves happened to be on the same "job" at the same time, and came face to face outside the residence they were about to loot. A brief consultation between the rivals resulted in plundering the place, on the understanding that the spoils would be split evenly. Teamwork made it possible to remove jewelry, silverware and linen to the value of 15,000,000 marks in the course of a few minutes.

Why Wood Has Superseded Iron.

Demountable wooden bins have been introduced as a successful and economical substitute for the light galvanized iron containers commonly used by the growers of the Northwest. The new bin is made up of 1 by 8-inch boards, from 6 to 8 feet in length, which are placed side by side and fastened together by wires, which are stapled to each unit. By using a greater or less number of boards, bins of any capacity may be built. The finished product may then be readily set up in any desired location for the reception of grain.

Why He Wasn't Stolen Too.

Patrolman J. O. D. reported to police headquarters thieves had stolen the bicycle furnished him by the city. Davis was not riding the vehicle at the time, he declared.—Atlanta Constitution.

Why Seas Are "Colored."

The North sea is green partly because of its clearness and partly because of its sandy bottom. The Red sea gets its name from a tiny weed-like growth, dull red in color, which seems to cover its surface. The Yellow sea of China was once supposed to be so named because of its mud, but its color is derived from a multitude of minute living organisms.

Sheep Depend on Rain.

In parts of Australia, where the average annual rainfall is not more than ten inches, a square mile of land will support less than a dozen sheep. In parts of Argentina the same area, with something like 56 inches of rain, supports as many as 2,560 sheep.

When Roads Were Clear.

In the middle ages, so frequent were the holdups on the highways, that the law required 200 feet on either side of the road should be cleared of bushes which might shelter robbers.

Thought for the Day.

If some people paid their bills as promptly as they want work done, much more work would be done at less cost.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Giants won a close decision from the weather man and the Phillies 5 to 4, pulling a five inning game out of the shower.

The Brooklyn Robins and Boston Braves split a bargain bill, the first going to the Braves and Rube Marquard, 14 to 0; the second to the Robins, 7 to 3.

Commissioner Landis visited Redland Field for the first time and the Reds celebrated by losing to the Cardinals, 2 to 0.

Waite Hoyt won his fifth straight and the Yankees made it three out of four by beating Detroit 7 to 4.

The White Sox bombarded Ehmke in the seventh and eighth for eight runs and defeated the Red Sox 9 to 2.

Walter Johnson was invincible in the pinches and the Senators winning 3 to 1, made it three out of five over Cleveland.

Three Athletic pitchers could not stop St. Louis batters and the Mackmen lost 9 to 1.

Drought Breaks at Willow.

August Hagemeyer of Willow has recently purchased a Hercules drought breaking gasoline engine. This equipment is being sold extensively by the Canfield Supply Company.

What Next?

After a physical examination by the school nurse, Jane appeared from the mysterious examination room with a pronounced limp.

"Say, what's the matter?" inquired Peg, her chum, anxiously.

"Well that nurse in there said I had tonsilitis, a crooked spine and pyorrhea and I thought I might as well limp too," replied Jane nonchalantly.

Explicit.

Howard objected to putting on a certain pair of socks.

I said, "Which ones do you want?"

He replied: "I want those that I had on the day we went to somewhere."—Exchange.

FRENCH STUDY BALDWIN NOTE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 23.—M. Poincare, in his dual capacity of premier and foreign minister, today began detailed examination of the British reparations note. It will be considered by the cabinet as a whole tomorrow.

The document will be studied jointly by France and Belgium through diplomatic channels. In the meantime deep secrecy is being maintained in official quarters.

In view of M. Poincare's accusations against Germany in his speech at Villers-Cotteret yesterday opinion is held that France will make vigorous representations in support of her original policy on reparations.

THE UP-TO-DATE COMPANY'S STORE WILL BE CLOSED ALL DAY TUESDAY, JULY 24th, for the purpose of readjusting, marking down and placing the Yellow Sale Tickets bearing the Clearance Price on each and every garment

FOR OUR FINAL SALE OF THE SEASON

On Coats, Wraps, Suits, Dresses, Furs, Millinery, Blouses, Lingerie and Hosiery

SALE STARTS

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 25

AT 9:30 O'CLOCK SHARP

Not in twenty-three years of our business career on Wall street have we taken such losses as we will take this year to make this sale the biggest money-saving event in the history of Kingston. Clearance of COATS, WRAPS, SUITS, DRESSES, MILLINERY, SKIRTS, LINGERIE, BLOUSES and HOSIERY, the low prices of which will echo from one end of the county to the other.

It will be a sale that will offer such special inducements that women of Ulster County and vicinity should exert every effort to come and share in the vast advantages it offers.

Our Final Sale of the season is too well known to every woman in this vicinity to pass unnoticed. This year we are offering an unprecedented stock of garments—lower in price than any previous sale—which is indeed an important factor for consideration. This sale will be our greatest clearance of outer apparel because we bought heavily and are overstocked which makes it imperative to turn our stock into cash.

The Colonial baseball squad will be kept busy this week playing at the Fair Grounds, no out of town games being scheduled
